Explore More Operation Yellow Ribbon

The Day the World Came to Town: 9/11 in Gander, Newfoundland, Jim DeFede. On September 11, 2001 air traffic in Canada and the United States were suspended and all airplanes were forced to land in what was called Operation Yellow Ribbon. 38 jetliners were forced to land in Gander, Newfoundland and nearly 7,000 people were displaced, exhausted and hungry. This is the story of how a town came together in the wake of tragedy and took care of complete strangers and forged friendships which would last years. 971.8 DEF

Explore More Canadian Musicals

Anne of Green Gables song album, Norman Campbell and Donald Harran III.
